

NEW

Financial Advisory Services

ESD 112 is pleased to announce our new financial advisory services to support our educational communities in Southwest Washington. This addition is a natural outgrowth of our highly regarded business management and facilities planning services for Washington Schools.

New Approach to Public Finance

ESD 112 brings a new level of independence to Washington school public finance. As public employees, we are in a true "Public Partnership" with the districts we serve and work as advocates to assure the best interests of the district are always on the forefront. These unparalleled services, coupled with bond market resources, are what set us apart in the finance industry.

Backed by Your ESD Team

ESD 112 has been working closely with school districts for over 45 years. We understand the complexities and dynamic nature of the education environment. Our team is led by Mark Prussing, one of the most experienced professionals in Washington school finance. He is supported in-house by a highly esteemed public relations and communications department, legal guidance, construction services, and business financial services.

Our public partnership approach, team of expert professionals and solid history of providing a wide breadth of resources makes the ESD 112 team highly qualified to serve as financial advisors to school districts.
